Unidad 2 | Clase 6 Vocabulary

Read the following text about the origins of Google. Then, do the exercises that follow.

The Beginning of Google

As a research project at Stanford University, Brin and Page created a search engine that listed results according to the popularity of the pages, after concluding that the most popular result was often the most useful. They called the search engine Google after the mathematical term "googol," which is a 1 followed by 100 zeros, to reflect their mission to organize the immense amount of information available on the internet.

After raising $1 million from family, friends and other investors, the pair launched the company in 1998. Headquartered in the heart of California's Silicon Valley, Google held its initial public offering in August 2004, making Brin and Page billionaires. Google has since become the world's most popular search engine, receiving an average of more than 8.5 billion searches a day in 2025.

Success, Technology and Expansion

In 2006, Google purchased the most popular website for user-submitted streaming videos, YouTube, for $1.65 billion in stock.

In 2012, Google unveiled its futuristic Google Glass, a type of wearable eyeglass-computer that featured touchpad and voice control, an LED illuminated display and a camera. While it was considered as the latest “it” in tech toys, there were concerns over privacy and safety. Also, since Google Glass had a lack of a clear purpose in everyday life, it had limited success in the commercial market. Its technology, however, has been applied for use in healthcare, journalism and the military.

On August 10, 2015, Brin and Page announced that Google and its divisions were being restructured under the umbrella of a new parent company called Alphabet, with Brin and Page serving as Alphabet's respective president and CEO.

On December 3, 2019, Brin and Page announced that they were stepping down from their day-to-day roles at Alphabet, though they were expected to remain involved in the company as its two largest individual shareholders.

In August 2025, Brin was ranked No. 8 on Forbes' "Billionaires" list, and No. 7 among U.S. billionaires who made the list.
